The Bay Wilderness
Current Science and Introduction to Marine Life

Summer Institute for High School and Middle School Teachers
June 28-29, 2010

During the two-day immersion program we will examine some of the present and future challenges facing the Bay and ocean environment through highly respected experts in the fields of marine and environmental science. We will also explore the Bay by boat and then study aquatic life up close at the Aquarium of the Bay. Participants in this Institute are eligible to attend free, professional development seminars throughout the year as part of our on-going teacher network.
